There's still half of summer to enjoy!

We're at the mid-point of summer holidays, and there's still lots of fun out there to enjoy, much of it right close to home.

Two examples of great vacation activities came together on Parks Day, when the Fort George and Buckingham House Historic Site interpreters visited Whitney Lakes Provincial Park for a campfire presentation, which introduced the best of both venues to an admiring audience.

After a busy day which included nature hikes and a display of wildlife by the Parks staff, information on boating safety by the Canada Coast Guard and a barbecue lunch, campers and other park visitors returned to the Ross Lake group day area in early evening to be entertained with background information on the fur trade and its traditions - the men who once operated the forts, and those who brought their furs to trade.

Located on the edge of the prairies, Fort George and Buckingham House were also provisioning posts where the voyageurs would stock up with pemmican for their long canoe journeys.

Ross Stromberg displayed some of the popular trade goods, from tricorne hats to blanket capotes, and later recruited volunteers from the audience to act out a canoe journey to the forts, and later to set up a model teepee.

Mary Easthope and Neil Leckie found more volunteers to act out a buffalo hunt, and demonstrated games popular during the fur trade era.

Both Whitney Lakes Provincial Park and Fort George and Buckingham House have a lot to offer visitors.

Uncrowded golden beaches, tree-shaded campsites, playground areas, hiking and interpretive trails and abundant bird life await campers at Whitney and Ross Lakes this final month of summer. Fish, water ski, or just relax while you watch a beautiful sunset spread its glow above the pines. Activity packs are available to help you identify wildlife tracks and the many bird species in the area.

Fort George and Buckingham House Historic Site is open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and has day camp sessions on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons to entertain the youngest visitors. Sundays are fun days for the whole family, with a

Faye Smith strikes gold at Alberta Seniors Games

Elk Point five-pin bowler Faye Smith struck gold at the Alberta Seniors Games in Lethbridge last week, placing first in the 55+ Ladies Bowling competition.

Her first two games were less than encouraging, with scores of 162 and 166, but Smith improved in her third to score 213, sitting fourth in the standings at the end of Wednesday's action.

"I still didn't watch the scoreboard - I didn't want to know how I was doing. I knew it was a long way from my practice round on Tuesday, when I scored a 320."

Advice from St. Paul Parallel Lanes owner John Madden came to mind as she went into her second and final day of competition. "He told me, 'don't be lazy. Concentrate and reach out,' and I did." Smith bowled a 210, a 273 and a 241 for a final total of 1265, which brought her the gold medal.

"Bowling is more than just throwing the ball down the alley. You've got to concentrate. It's in your mind," says the Alberta champion, looking back at her Senior Games visit. She enjoyed the experience, met lots of people and would definitely go again, given the opportunity.

Also competing from the Elk Point area were Ernie Poitras, who placed seventh overall in 55+ Men's Golf and Roland Gascon, who competed in the 65+ 100 M Sprint.

Elk Point had yet another claim to fame at the Seniors Games. Elk Point Toe Tappers Florence Demchuk, Jeannette Frisby, Elaine Zayonce and Joan Palamarek attended the games to present a demonstration of their country dancing talents on Wednesday, July 25.

Lots to enjoy during the final month of summer

the upcoming Forts des Prairies Jamboree on August 26. This is one of the highlights of summer at the Forts and brings music, song, cowboy poetry and tall tales from numerous volunteer performers to delight the audience.

Even when there isn't a special event, the Forts are a great place to visit. Check out the display of medicinal plants, take a walk down the shady trail to the original fort sites and view, paint or photograph the picturesque North Saskatchewan valley from the viewpoint at the south end of the Buckingham House site. If you're in the mood for a long walk, take the trail down to the River Landing and climb back up on the trail of the voyageurs, although without their weighty packs.

Other great ways to spend a summer day in this area include a trip to one of the fairs in the area: Elk Point's on August 10 and 11, or Dewberry Mini Fair on August 18. Make sure to visit Dewberry's great museum - it has some amazing displays of Native and fur trade artifacts.

Two more excellent campgrounds in the area are the Elk Point Elks Wilderness Campground at Kehewin Lake - a great beach for sandcastle building - and Stoney Lake Recreation area, with some power sites, a western-style playground, gazebo and bandshell. Both lakes offer good fishing.

BOATING SAFETY - David Moulds of the Canada Coast Guard offered boating safety tips to Parks Day visitors at Ross Lake.

CONSERVATION OFFICERS gave Parks Day visitors the opportunity to shake paws with a wolf hide or investigate how a bear trap works - even if there have been no recent bear sightings in the Ross Lake area.

All eyes are on Edmonton as August events arrive

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Yes, all eyes will be on Edmonton in the days ahead. From August 3 to 12, the 8th IAAF World Championships in Athletics (Track and Field) will be taking place in Edmonton. This is the third largest sporting event in the world, after the Summer Olympics and soccer's World Cup. The competition consists of 24 men's and 22 women's events and is expected to draw some 3000 athletes and coaches from as many as 210 member federations. The World Championships in Athletics are held every two years under the authority of the International Amateur Athletic Federation (IAAF). Edmonton is proud to host the 8th IAAF World Championships in Athletics, being held for the first time in North America.

These Athletics events will be occurring around the same time as the Edmonton Heritage Festival. This event, from August 4 to 6, is the world's largest festival celebrating cultural diversity and harmony. It will offer visitors a whirlwind experience unique to Canada. Vibrant music, dance, songs, fashions, sports, arts, crafts and food from more than 60 world cultures represented by 6000 volunteers in Edmonton will draw in over 300,000 people for endless hours of amazement and indulgence. This is all for free admission to Hawrelak Park. Don't forget this event is around Monday, August 6, which is our first Monday in August - a holiday known as Alberta Heritage Day.

Then, there is more that is happening in Edmonton during the first couple of weeks in August. Why, the Edmonton Folk Music Festival will take place from August 9 to 12. This Festival features approximately 65 to 70 local, national and international acts and a wide range of musical styles including blues, Celtic, singer-songwriters, bluegrass, gospel and world music.

Coincidentally, this Folk Music Festival starts and ends on two important days. August 9 is International Day of the World's Indigenous People. This day was declared by the United Nations, to be celebrated each year as part of the International Decade of the World's Indigenous People, to strengthen international cooperation for the solution of problems faced by indigenous people in such areas as human rights, the environment, development, health, culture, and education.

The last day of the Folk Music Festival, August 12, is the United Nations International Youth Day. In Alberta, August 12 is known as Ukrainian Day. This day is an annual salute to Albertans of Ukrainian ancestry, presented by the Ukrainian Canadian Congress, Alberta Provincial Council in cooperation with the Ukrainian Cultural Heritage Village. The Ukrainian Cultural Heritage Village's largest and longest-running event features a full day of entertainment.

All of this is happening during the first two weeks of August! But, just in case you missed out... you could plan to attend the Edmonton Fringe Theatre Festival from August 16 to 26. This is a Mardi Gras of live indoor theatre and outdoor performances, with more than a thousand performances attracting half a million patrons each year. This event is located in Edmonton's Old Strathcona district. Yes, all eyes are on Edmonton in August.

Sid Holthe honored by Alberta Retired Teachers

By Olga Ockerman
Review Contributor

On June 19, 2001 at a NEARTA meeting held in St. Lina, members and guests were honored to be part of the awarding of an Honorary Life Membership in the Alberta Retired Teachers Association (ARTA) to charter member Sid Holthe. Dora Corbett of Calgary, past president of ARTA, made the presentation. She explained how the branches have the opportunity to nominate a member who has given outstanding service to the organization and community, for this award. It was, therefore, appropriate that this year NEARTA had submitted Sid Holthe's name and he was selected to receive this recognition.

It was exactly 15 years ago, on June 20, 1986 when Holthe invited a number of retired teachers in the area to a meeting at the Empress Restaurant to see if there would be an interest in forming a local branch of ARTA. Several branches were already in existence in the province but this area had no representation. It was decided there and then to do so and the name chosen, "North Eastern Retired Teachers Association" (NEARTA). Sid Holthe was elected as the first president. A charter was granted in October, 1986. Members were retired teachers from Cold Lake, Bonnyville, Grand Centre, St. Paul, Elk Point and area. Main purpose of the branch was to encourage fellowship of the retirees and to pursue social and educational skills of its members.

During all these years, Sid Holthe has played an active role in both the provincial and local level of the organization. Dora Corbett briefly noted some of his major contributions to ARTA and his influence on implementing some of its policies. During all this time he was also very actively involved in his own community.

Holthe graciously

expressed his appreciation for the award and said he was honored to have his service, which he gave voluntarily, recognized in this way. Congratulations were then extended to him by all members in attendance.

NEARTA continues to be an active branch with four meetings per year, held at different centres. It is a vital part of ARTA whose mandate is to be an advocate for all Alberta retired teachers on issues affecting their well-being. The next meeting will be held in Elk Point in September and all retired teachers are welcome and invited to become members.

SID HOLTHE is congratulated by Dora Corbett, past president of Alberta Retired Teachers Association, who had the privilege of presenting him with an honorary life membership for his outstanding contribution to the organization.

■ Nutrition Notes

The most common sport: speed eating

By Linda Fox, RD
Elk Point Health Centre

Have you ever choked on food or seen someone else choke on food? Ever wonder why?

How long does it take you to finish a meal or snack? Does your spouse complain that you've finished eating before she/he even sits down at the table?

Eating food is important to most people, either because it tastes good and they enjoy eating, or because they know they have to eat to stay alive. For many people that's the extent of what they think about in relation to eating and nutrition.

We all know we need to chew our food well before swallowing, right? Do we all do that? When you consider how many people choke on chunks of food, usually large, unchewed chunks of meat, we'd have to say no, we speed eat.

Why do we try to swallow such large pieces? Some of the conscious, or unconscious, reasons might be: not paying attention to the eating process (how many of us watch TV while we eat?) or, wanting to get to the next bite because we enjoy the taste, or, wanting to say something when we have a mouth full of food, or, wanting to get on to something "more important."

In addition to reducing the risk of choking, chewing our food well serves another purpose. Chewing breaks the food up into small particles so that the body can begin the digestive process by mixing enzymes with the small pieces of food. Digestion begins in the mouth, not the stomach.

Speed eating serves no benefit. Eating needs to be a relaxing, re-energizing, calming time, occurring three or more times a day. A time to breathe calmer, eat slower, chew well, and consciously enjoy the act of eating.

When we eat on the run, we usually eat while doing other activities. Eating deserves our full attention.

Choose foods according to Canada's Food Guide to Healthy Living. Chew what you think are enough times, and then chew five more times before you swallow. Make sure your food is in the right form to begin the digestive process, to ensure you get the most nutrients for your buck and to decrease your risk for choking.

So, all you contenders for the gold medal in speed eating, slow down, relax and enjoy your food.

For more information contact Linda Fox, RD at Elk Point Health Centre, 724-3847.

■ Rural Thoughts

Creating opportunities for rural and urban Canadians

By Andy Mitchell
Secretary of State for Rural Development

There has been considerable debate in the printed media in the last few months about the future of both rural and urban Canada. It is my belief that a strong Canada can only exist when its component parts, both rural and urban are healthy and our citizens have the opportunity to access the wealth of the nation.

Canadians have a long tradition of nation building, of working together for the common good, of seeing that the country is more than the sum of its parts. That is why we take pride in our national institutions.

It is important to make the point to our urban neighbours that rural, remote and Aboriginal communities make a vital and significant contribution to the economy, society and to the well-being of all Canadians. Appropriate new investments and tools will mean that rural Canadians can contribute even more to our national prosperity.

Rural and remote Canada accounts for 17 percent of the employed workforce and 15 percent of GDP. More important than that, rural based resource industries account for about 40 percent of our exports primarily from natural resource industries including agriculture, fishing, forestry, energy and mining.

Rural and remote Canada is a source of petroleum that drives urban industries, as well as cars, trucks and buses. It generates the natural gas and electricity that heat and light homes and businesses. It produces the wood that builds houses and the food that goes on the nation's tables. If it wasn't for rural and remote Canadians, who would supply these resources for us?

Some think that the difficulties faced by rural Canada are simply the result of poor government policy. That view displays more an adherence to a political ideology than to a description of the real situation. Rural Canada faces different challenges than urban Canada not because it is less efficient or less industrious or less committed but because the structural realities of urban and rural Canada are different. Rural Canada's vast geography and the challenges it creates in delivering services, rural Canada's lack of population and the limitation it places on attracting investment, the long distances rural Canadian businesses are from their market and the increased business costs this presents are not the result of government policy but are structural realities that will always exist.

Government's role is to mitigate those challenges working to ensure that all Canadians have an opportunity to access the wealth of the nation. As Canadians we would never suggest that a rural Canadian should expect inferior medical treatment just because it is more expensive to deliver.

I believe that it is appropriate, that the entire nation contribute to help improve the transportation infrastructure on the prairies that brings our food to market. It should not be forgotten that all Canadians also contribute toward rapid transit facilities in urban areas because they benefit our nation as a whole.

Another proposed investment that can help all Canadians is the one recommended by the National Broadband Task Force to extend high-speed Internet access to rural, remote and Aboriginal communities. Such an investment can overcome some of those challenges I mentioned through technology. It can provide rural and remote communities with access to medical services that otherwise would require patients to be flown long distances to see the appropriate specialist. It can overcome the issue of distance to market and make the world the market place. It can deliver services inexpensively over large geographic distances at significantly reduced costs.

It would also enhance educational opportunities through distance learning and create job opportunities that would make small communities more viable. Proposals like this one can give rural Canadians new tools to compete on an even playing field not only with their urban neighbours but also with the entire world. It will be an investment in the young people who will be required to sustain rural and remote Canada in the future.

But the contribution of rural Canada to the nation should not only be measured in dollars. Its very existence has long defined us as a people and a nation. All Canadians benefit from the tourism, the environmental stewardship and natural attractions available in rural and remote Canada.

Rural, remote, Aboriginal and urban Canadians all have a role to play in our economy and society. All face distinct challenges. I believe, and I think most Canadians would agree, that we should work to create opportunities for all Canadians, rather than trying to pit one group against the others.

Busy summer at the Forts

By Mary Easthope
Senior Interpreter

This week we had a large amount of tourists come and visit us at the Forts. We are also getting a lot of tourists from other countries. To give you an idea of where some of the people are coming from, we have had people from Italy, Sweden, Scotland, Germany, United States and Australia and many people from across Canada.

Our Day Camps are going really well. We have some new kids and are still welcoming any who want to join us. The theme for last week was 'Native Way of Life' and this week is 'People of the Fur Trade.' On August 2, weather and river level permitting, we are actually going to go on a canoe trip down the river with our very own Pat Johnson. We are going to canoe from Elk Point Bridge to the landing at the Forts. Feel free to join us if you like canoeing and don't mind water.

Sunday fun days are still happening at Fort

George and Buckingham House. On July 22 we showed people how to make bead necklaces and bannock. On July 29 some local people played some music from the olden days.

Parks Day went really well. There were about 40 people there. The weather was really nice which made it great for playing games. We also provided a demonstration on the teepee and how to set it up. Some people attempted to use the flint and steel to start a fire. The wonderful music provided by the parks people was a great way to end the day.

Our Jamboree is coming up pretty fast and we are still looking for anyone who wants to participate in it, so if you are interested, please contact us. Our Jamboree is August 26 beginning at 1:00 in the afternoon so if you would like to participate in this activity or just come and listen, please feel free to join us. OVER 40 YEARS EXPERIENCE

Buddy leading the World Professional Chuckwagons

Dewberry's Buddy Bensmiller is leading the standings by a sizeable 41-point margin going into this weekend's World Professional Chuckwagon Association Dodge Pro Tour finals in Strathmore, Alberta.

The association's top eight drivers, after points were added from the Edmonton Klondike Derby, will compete in a playdown to determine who will race in the sudden death final for the WPCA championship on Monday.

Bensmiller leads the pack with 529.5 points, with Kelly Sutherland second at 488.5, Jason Glass third with 477, Reg Johnstone fourth with 469. Making up the rest of the top eight are Rick Fraser, 462.5, Jerry Bremner, 455, Norm Cuthbertson 446.5 and Neal Walgenbach, 445. Third generation driver Kurt Bensmiller sits in 15th place.

Herman Flad of Bodo, AB won the Klondike Derby championship, with Hugh Sinclair second, Harold Chapin third and Jason Glass fourth.

Buddy Bensmiller was 10th in the show and Calgary Stampede champion Kelly Sutherland 13th. Flad's 1:27.03 was the fastest run Thursday night on a very muddy, rain-soaked track, emerging coated with mud to accept the championship and dash for cash winnings.

Rae Croteau Jr. wins Meadow Lake

Wet weather also plagued the Canadian Professional Chuckwagons as they met in Meadow Lake this weekend, canceling Sunday's show. Rae Croteau Jr. of Bonnyville ran a tenth of a second ahead of Ross Knight on Saturday and almost a quarter of a second faster than his dad, Bert, to win top day money and because of Sunday's cancellation, the show championship. All drivers received two points for the rained-out day.

The CPCAs top ten drivers after Meadow Lake are: Larry McEwen, 128.5 points; Bert Croteau, 127; Ross Knight, 121; Wayne Knight, 110; Leo Tournier, 107; Ray Mitsuing, 98.5; Rod Salmond, 93; Brian Laboucane, 92; Rae Croteau Jr., 88; Jim Knight, 86.5.
